Market Summary

Industrials Market

The global industrial machinery market experienced robust growth in the fall of 2025, driven by macroeconomic tailwinds, rapid automation rates, and accelerated infrastructure development in the Asia-Pacific, North America, and Europe. The industry sizes and estimates indicate a 2025 market size of 0.81 trillion and an estimation of 1.22 trillion by 2030, with an annual CAGR of 8.49, a clear demonstration of the high expectations of future growth in the industry due to the prevalence of Industry 4.0, industrial robotics, and smart manufacturing platforms. The construction and infrastructure sector has a strong demand driven by government-sponsored projects, urbanization, and the transition to sustainable and smart city development, and with Asia-Pacific occupying a leading share in the world, as new capacity is added to both China and India, and continued automation is made. In line with machinery, the market of industrial services is also growing and is expected to grow by 22.68 billion and retain a good CAGR of 7.3 percent in 2029, as further after-market services and predictive maintenance services take a strategic position among the industry players in the manufacturing sector. The introduction and adoption of new modern technologies, including artificial intelligence, technologies that use the Internet of Things, and real-time data analytics, not only stimulated the rise in productivity but also contributed to the disappearance of a workforce shortage and the changing regulatory requirements, especially when it comes to zero-emission and energy-saving systems. Although the industry is facing short-term issues such as a shortage of skilled labor and geopolitical risks, its future still looks strongly positive as automation, digitization, and infrastructure renewal are the pillars supporting the resilience in the short-term and creation of value in the long-term.

Public Company Valuation

The CFA Select Industrials index increased by 1.6% in the third quarter of 2025, and the 12-month return on the index increased by 9.2%. For Q3 2025, the Selected Heavy Machinery Index increased by 7.0% and the Electrical Products Index increased by 19.8% for the 12-month return. The Electrical Products Index had the highest median EBITDA and revenue multiple of 19.5x and 4.6x, respectively. The Tool & Hardware Manufacturing Index had the lowest median EBITDA multiple of 11.0x, and the Specialty Chemicals Index had the lowest revenue multiple of 1.6x. The Automotive Parts, Building Products, Specialty Chemicals, Diversified Industrials, and Heavy Machinery Index had median EBITDA multiples of 15.6x, 11.1x, 12.5x, 19.1x, and 12.9x, respectively. Automotive Parts, Building Products, Diversified Industrials, Tool & Hardware Manufacturing, and Heavy Machinery Index median revenue multiples of 2.0x, 1.8x, 3.9x, 3.9x, and 1.7x, respectively.

Mergers and Acquisitions

The industrials industry was vibrant in the quarter, with CEOs increasing dealmaking in efforts to achieve growth, innovation, and supply chain agility. Investor interest increased in industrial manufacturing, electronics, and embedded systems, and strategic buyers sought companies that provided engineering-constrained automation and scalable embedded systems, particularly in critical applications, such as automotive and aerospace. The industry of metals production M&A was advantaged by the positive North American policy and the desire to achieve higher security of the supply chain. Activity saw a consideration of technology synergies, operational resilience, and geographic diversification as industry leaders adjusted to changing patterns of trade and market cycles.

Industry Trends

The AI of Industry Starts to Transition between Experiment and Operational Core

The world market of industrial AI is in transition to a rapid one, where manufacturers will no longer work on pilot projects but instead implement AI-based operations on a full scale. In Fall 2025, industrial companies will be integrating AI models into predictive maintenance, quality control, and autonomous process optimization and getting quantifiable throughput, defects, and energy payoffs. The AI market in industries will explode to 153.9 billion in 2030, as indicated by IoT Analytics, at a CAGR of 23 percent, with the role of AI becoming not just a tool but an indispensable partner in the decision-making process in plants. In the recent case studies, AI-powered vision systems to identify anomalies in real-time on the production lines, and adaptive algorithms to optimally adjust machine parameters in the absence of operator inputs are highlighted. The automotive and electronics industries have the highest adoption rates, yet even less technologically advanced industries, such as chemicals and basic metals, are experiencing increased adoption of AI, which is partly being influenced by the lack of talent and the payback of automation. Q3 momentum is increasing demand for AI solutions with cross-plant data aggregation, context-aware analytics, and generative design as a new industrial baseline to data-augmented production.

Hyperconnected Factories and Secure Networks

The industrial connectivity has become a leading-edge trend in this quarter, with factories producing a renewal of the old systems to the high-speed and low-latency digital network. The industrial connectivity market is projected to grow to 140.8 billion by 2034, due to Industry 4.0 investment and implementation of 5G, Wi-Fi 6, and Time-Sensitive Networking (TSN). Manufacturers are focusing on machine-to-machine communication and ubiquitous deployment of sensors to facilitate real-time monitoring, predictive maintenance, and smooth orchestration of production. Dominating shares in North America and Asia-Pacific have not been abandoned, yet the momentum is global. TSN is now the foundation of intelligent work in multidimensional plants, and 5G is the basis of large gaggles of cooperating robots and remote-controlled equipment. This connectivity race is also increasing the expectation in terms of cybersecurity preparedness, with zero-trust architectures and encrypted networking becoming the norm in terms of transferring industrial data. These developments are the basis of enterprise IoT, artificial intelligence-based optimized resource utilization, and future-proofed manufacturing.

The Automation of the Next Level Empowers Scalability and Sustainability

The Fall 2025 quarter saw industrial automation increase by leaps and bounds with manufacturers adopting next-generation robotics, edge computing, and cloud-based control systems. It is estimated that by 2034, the automation market will reach 569.3 billion worldwide, with a CAGR of 9.3% as firms step up automation of robots and install autonomous material handling systems. The past few months have shown growing interest in the flexible, reconfigurable robotics and machine learning-driven adaptive control, significantly decreasing the level of manual intervention and increasing the flexibility of production. The automation is no longer seen as a repetitive element of the shop-floor, but it is at the core of intelligent supply chain, closed-loop quality control, and energy optimization in factories. Q3 was also the beginning of fully networked automation cells, which combine data capture and real-time feedback loops to maximize uptime and resource utilization. It is a wave of automation that is assisting companies to react more quickly to market needs, lessen waste, and comply with stricter sustainability criteria, transforming the competitive environment of the leading firms in the global industry.

About CFA

Who We Are / What We Do

Corporate Finance Associates (CFA) is an independent international investment banking firm serving middle-market businesses. For over 60 years Corporate Finance Associates has been advocating on behalf of business owners who are restructuring a company, either through divestiture, merger, acquisition or recapitalization. Combining the knowledge and leverage of a larger bank with the customer focused detail of a boutique firm, from inception to completion, our senior principals provide hands-on expertise to clients buying, selling or recapitalizing a business.

This Industrials Industry Practice Group was established to draw on the experience of CFA advisors, many of whom as former business owners and CEOs, have first-hand knowledge and have completed many transactions in this industry. Working with your local CFA representative, you can be sure that the collective wealth of knowledge is available to every CFA client.

Sell-Side Advisory

Whether as a divestiture strategy or a recapitalization strategy selling all or part of a business requires equal parts creative thinking, critical analysis, expert advice, sound planning and flawless execution. Having the right team of investment banking professionals working for you is critical to ensure success.

Capital Markets

Our commitment to remaining independent from any investment or lending affiliates ensures that we deliver unbiased guidance. It also promotes maximum competition among lending sources, helping to fully leverage value for our clients. Our role is to help you raise the type of capital that best fits your needs.

Buy-Side Advisory

Growth through acquisition is a complex process. It involves strategy, planning, critical analysis, coordination and negotiation. When you want to take advantage of the fast growth offered by a consolidation or roll-up, CFA's broad reach, sources of financing and efficient closings can help you achieve your business growth goals.

Financial Advisory

Now that you have made the decision to raise capital for your business, choosing the right investment banker is critical. Whether you are buying out a partner, financing an acquisition or seeking growth capital, CFA is the right choice to help you achieve your financing goals.

Exit Planning

Every business will ultimately undergo a transfer via sale or merger, a charitable donation, a transfer to a child or relative or even bankruptcy, liquidation or death. Every ownership transfer carries with it a unique set of consequences and the best consequences usually begin with a clearly defined exit plan.

Business Valuation

"What is my business worth" is a question we often hear from business owners contemplating a business sale, merger or recapitalization. Answering this question depends on many factors, including the business valuation methods that are employed in the calculation.
